2 April 2015, by Brea Carter, Be the First to Comment

With summer on the horizon, Event takes a look at four pop-up venues that are set to open their doors over the warmer months for events.

Nantucket Beach Club will serve up a range of summer-themed cocktails

Nantucket Beach Club

SkyLounge, the outdoor roof terrace that sits atop the DoubleTree Hilton, Tower Hill has teamed up with Snow Queen Vodka and Lanson Champagne on the launch of its very own island-inspired pop-up, aptly named Nantucket Beach Club. Set to open its doors to the public on 1 May and remain open until 30 September, the pop-up takes its inspiration from Nantucket, New England and features a lighthouse, swing-bench and bowling alley. The venue will serve up summer-themed cocktails including vodka slushies, meanwhile on the food front guests can expect to find seafood dishes such as a Lobster mac and cheese, Seafood Survival Bucket and clam chowder and lobster rolls. The space includes a VIP gazebo area, which is available for private hire.

The Paperworks

The Paperworks pop-up space in North London features bar booths and large outdoor areas that are great for soaking up the summer sun. Guests can expect street food by Create Food & Design, as well as great cocktails and music. The open-air venue, which is the work of Corsica Studios, can accommodate large-scale events right through to small intimate gatherings and everything in between. The Paperworks is situated in close proximity to Borough and London Bridge, making it a convenient destination in which to hold an event.

The City Summer House

The City Summer House will return to Truman Brewery's old boiler house at Brick Lane, London throughout June and July. The space is complete with exposed brickwork and rustic metal furnishings, an indoor and outdoor bar, giant beanbags and park benches as well as table tennis, pool and foosball tables. Paella, Hog Roast's and a summer BBQ are among the food options, and a range of specialist event packages are available. Described as a 'blank versatile space,' The City Summer House can accommodate various different types of events and up to 500 guests.

Available for hire from 17 July through to 23 August, the rooftop can accommodate anywhere from 40 to 100 guests, with catering company The London Kitchen secured for this year's instalment. It offers views of the famous Camden Beach and is complete with summer essentials including sun lounges and armchairs, along with a hot tub.
